SUES OFFICER AFTER ARREST

Ten dollars worth of chrysanthemums may involve at least three separate court actions in Redwood City for amounts adding up to hundreds of dollars. Charged with petty theft, Domini Tanzi will go on trial, Monday of next week.

Tanzi was arrested, Friday evening of last week, by Robert Dickinson, private patrolman, who accused the man of stealing chrysanthemums near a florist shop. The officer turned over Tanzi's car to the proprietor of the shop as security for the "pilfered" flowers.

Meanwhile, Tanzi affirms that he was merely picking up the flowers which had been left to spoil by the roadside. His attorney, Norman S. Menifee, has now filed suit for possession of the car and $500 as damages for depriving Tanzi of the use of his vehicle.

The actions of Dickinson, who is licensed as an investigator by the state to carry a gun, have previously been questioned by Sheriff James J. McGrath. A feud between McGrath and Dickinson started July 16, when the former took the patrolman's badge away from the latter.

Dickinson countered with a suit for $25,000 damages against the sheriff. This case is pending.

Victim Identified By Finger Prints

The unknown pedestrian, struck down and killed by a car driven by Vincent Bodalanent at Brisbane, October 10, has been identified, according to Chief Deputy Coroner Daniel J. O'Connell. He was Harry Dolan.

The fact was established through finger prints sent to the Federal Bureau of Identification, Washington, D. C.

COUNTY LEADERS PLEDGE SUPPORT OF RED CROSS

District Chairmen Are Departing For Annual Roll Call Campaign In Vicinity

Prominent northern San Mateo County leaders joined the ranks of citizens today who have pledged their support to the annual roll call of the Red Cross which starts Armistice Day, November 11, and closes Thanksgiving Day.

Among the northern San Mateo County leaders who will aid the Red Cross are Mrs. Horace Fellows, who is roll call chairman in Daly City; Mrs. M. P. Brown, chairman in Colma; and E. A. Weisenberger, chairman in Lawndale.

County Chairman Helen Chese brough said of the three leaders in announcing their names in the roll call:

"I cannot express my happiness with mere words in knowing that the Red Cross roll call in northern San Mateo county will be handled by citizens as representative as Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Fellows and Mr. Weisenberger.

"Northern San Mateo County has always given willingly to the cause of the Red Cross. I know that this year as was the case in other years, Daly City, Colma, Lawndale and its

GOLF WIZARD ACQUITTED; OFFERED FILM CONTRACT

Acquitted on a seven year old charge of robbery, John Montague, Hollywood's wizard golfer and "mystery man," recently started plans for a new and richer chapter in an already amazing life. Shortly after an Elizabethtown, N. Y., jury freed the golfing pal of Hollywood's stars, officials of Paramount's studios announced that "Mysterious Monty" had signed a contract amounting to $1,000,000 in seven years. He will appear in pictures, on the radio and as a professional golfer, it was announced. Photo shows Montague (left), Mrs. Mary Moore, his mother, and Mrs. Mary Allen, a sister, outside the courtroom at the close of the trial.

PEDESTRIAN HIT AND KILLED ON MISSION STREET

Colma Rancher Expires Soon After Being Struck By Passing Automobile

A Colma rancher, Andronico Agresti, 48, was fatally injured Saturday evening of last week, about 8:45 o'clock, when he was struck down at Mission and Bismark streets by an automobile driven by John Wilson, 19, of Willets street, Daly City.

Agresti, died thirty minutes later in the Villa Sanitarium. In a desperate effort to save him the injured man was placed in the iron lung.

About a year ago the unfortunate man was struck by another automoble near the spot where he sustained the injuries that resulted in his death.

Wilson was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter and was later released on bail.

Funeral services were conducted for the deceased from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., Tuesday afternoon of this week, at 2 o'clock. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

The surviving relatives are four brothers—Pietro, Carlo, Cesere and Angelo Agresti; and three sisters—Mrs. Rose Martinelli, Mrs. Santini Lippi and Mrs. Perfato Lami.

Five Treated For Accident Injuries

Five persons sustained injuries in an automobile accident on the Bayshore Highway near South San Francisco, Sunday evening of this week.

Treated at a local hospital were Mrs. Alice Schingle, Mrs. Alice Kroll, Mrs. Mary Kroll and Henry and John Kroll—all of 221 Randall street, San Francisco.

Saturday Matinees Meet With Favor

Only two more Saturday afternoon performances of marionettes in "Alice In Wonderland" will be staged at the Alcazar Theater. The final performance will be November 6.

On November 13 the first of a series of matinees on Saturday only, of "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented. The Saturday afternoon performances are meeting with great favor among the school children of the Bay District.

Phantom Gunman Takes Pot Shot Again At Driver

San Mateo County's "phantom gunman" struck again last week end.

Thus far his aim has not been fatal. Police are fearing, however, his shooting may improve with practice—having redoubled their efforts to run him down before a life is taken.

Latest driver to be endangered is F. M. Almstead, Belmont.

Almstead, driving south on the Bayshore highway, had just passed the intersection of the thoroughfare with the Millbrae road when an unknown sniper fired at him.

The bullet, from a .22 caliber gun, struck the windshield of his car, he told San Mateo police.

MAYOR BACKING AN ACTIVE DRIVE FOR NAVY BASE

Rossi Splits With C. Of C. In Favoring Construction Of Depot On West Side Of Bay

The mayor of San Francisco and the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce are divided on the issue of establishing the $15,000,000 navy supply base on the west side of the bay.

Angelo J. Rossi declared this week he favored bringing the depot to San Francisco or San Mateo shores.

The San Francisco chamber has indorsed Oakland as the site and its president, J. M. Howell, admitted that the San Francisco chamber was out to get the navy depot for Oakland and nowhere else.

Rossi stated:

"I'll back everything that Congressmen McGrath and Welch do to get the base over here. I want to straighten this thing out. I supported Alameda for the air base but I do not support Oakland for the supply base. There can be no question about that."

Congressman John J. McGrath said that he was satisfied that the entire San Francisco city administration is behind the project.

Former Editor Of Magazine Succumbs

Editor in chief of the Saturday Evening Post for 37 years, George Horace Lorimer, 69, died of pneumonia at his 1100 acre farm near Wyncote, Pa., Sunday of this week.

Lorimer left the Post January 1, 1937. He had built it up from a genteel, colorless journal with a circulation of aproximately 1800 to a five cent weekly with more than 3,000,000 readers.

Belle Drops Suit Against Opera Star

Dark eyed, dark haired Octavia Picchioni, 29, belle of San Francisco's Italian colony, dropped her $200,000 breach of promise suit against Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan Opera star, Monday of this week.

Announcement of the move was made in superior court when the case was called before Judge J. Steiger.

DEATH SNUFFS OUT SIX LIVES OVER WEEK END

Three Victims Of Plant Explosion Die Of Burns—Three Struck By Cars

Violent death was a week end guest in San Mateo County. Three pedestrians were struck down by automobiles and three San Bruno and South San Francisco boys, who were burned in the recent E. I. du Pon de Nemours plant fire, succumbed in a South San Francisco hospital.

The nitro-cellulose explosion in South San Francisco counted the third victim with the death of Audley Baker, 20, of San Bruno, early Monday morning of this week. Webb Raymond, 23, of South San Francisco, died the evening before, and James McFarlin, 20, San Bruno, expired Saturday night of last week.

The victims of automobile accidents were:

Andronico Agresti, 55, Colma rancher, fatally injured while crossing El Camino Real infront of Jefferson High school, Daly City.

Pat McBride, 50, a gardener of 500 Middlefield road, Palo Alto, killed as he started across Bayshore highway in East Palo Alto.

Monti M. Aggie, 58, a groom attached to the W. A. Thomas stables at Bay Meadows, struck by two cars as he crossed El Camino Real, west to east, at Thirty-sixth avenue, San Mateo.

Hitch Hiker Nets $18 On Short Trip

An ungrateful hitch hiker with a warped sense of humor took $18 from William Adams, truck driver, 1321 Laurel street, Oakland, early this week.

Adams reported that the man nudged him in the ribs with a revolver, after a brief ride, and said, "Funny, isn't it?" as he grabbed Adams' wallet and fled.

BRISBANE HOUSE IS CONSUMED BY MYSTERIOUS FIRE

Fireman Roy Edwards Is Overcome By Smoke As Home Of Resident Blazes

A spectacular early morning fire destroyed the home of Otto Petersen and injured five firemen, Monday of this week.

The fire, preceded by an explosion of unknown origin, swept through the structure so quickly that the house was completely ablaze bebore firemen were summoned.

Fire Marshal Terry questioned the owner and made a thorough investigation of the premises in an effort to ascertain the cause of the conflagration.

The roar of the explosion and fire awakened several neighbors, who turned in the alarm, bringing 22 volunteer firemen to the scene. The men connected the hose as rapidly as possible and poured tons of water into the building before bringing the blaze under control.

Three attempts were made to enter the building, but each time the firemen were driven back by the intense heat.

TO CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY VIEWING PEACE

National Defense Forces Will Participate In Public Demonstration To Be Held

The glorification of peace will be the keynote of San Francisco's Armistice Day celebration on Thursday, November 11.

This was announced this week, by the general chairman and the executive chairman of the Mayor's Citizens Committee.

"Many persons seem to think that Armistice Day is a day dedicated to glorifying war," the statement said. "But such is not the case. It is a day dedicated to peace.

"No one wants war. No veteran who fought in the World War, the Spanish-American War, Civil War or any war wants to see this country again engage in armed conflict. We want no entangling alliances with foreign nations. We want peace.

"The veterans of San Francisco are to the forefront in this movement for peace and they have taken the leadership in making this the theme for the coming Armistice Day celebration."

While the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will participate actively in the Armistice Day program, Executive Chairman Marckley pointed out that this was not to be construed as a militaristic move.

"The Army, Navy and Marine Corps will take part as representative of the national defense forces of our government. "We welcome them in our celebration.'"

Arrangements are being made for thousands of school children in the city's public schools to stage a colorful Armistic Day demonstartion in the Civic Auditorium. Miss Estelle Carpenter, supervisor of music in the schools, has been appointed to supervise the exercises.

Ball In Bayshore Will Be Attended By Many Patrons

More tickets have been sold for the Bayshore Voters League Hallowe'en Dance than for any dance, sponsored by the group, in the last four years, according to the committee in charge of arrangements.

The ball this Saturday at 125 Acacia street off Geneva avenue offers many valuable awards.

The best costumed couple will be given a memento of the occasion.

Zuppke Gives His Recipe for Making an All-American

BOB ZUPPKE, whose Illinois team tied Notre Dame, provides the world's best definition of an All-America football star. To produce one he says you need "a man who can run, weak opposition and a poet in the press box" . . . Cleveland's Earl Averill definitely is on the market and the bidding has not been brisk for Boston's Jimmy Foxx . . . When Bob Pastor appeared before the State Athletic commission he was assured that Commissioner Bill Brown had never called Max Baer a bum. Yet when a sports editor was on the carpet he asked that the record be read and in the commission's own minutes it was stated that Ballyhoo Bill referred to Max as a bum. The minutes, of course, must be wrong. Indeed, practically everything's wrong except Ballyhoo Bill and his playmates.

Although he has won five World series games and has beaten them four times the Giants still insist Lefty Gomez is not suchamuch as a pitcher. They admire Red Ruffing's ability to pitch to spots and say he was the best Yankee to face them . . . Boston college's freshmen indicate that Gil Dobie will have an even better eleven next year than the present one . . . Fight manager Hymie Caplin finds one trouble with being proprietor of a delicatessen restaurant in New York. His fighters insist upon coming and running up tabs.

Jack Hurley, former manager of Billy Petrolle, was here recently and now the boys say he was offered Al Weill's job as Hippodrome and Garden matchmaker. It still seems one of the main requirements of a Garden matchmaker is the ability or willingness to be fired every week.

Informed Philadelphians insist politics has become all important in the making of Penn's football teams, that the Yale massacre was no surprise . . . Friends report Tony Lazzeri, who still is in line to manage the team next season, as saying all Cleveland's Indians need is a second baseman and a catcher to make them terribly tough for the Yankees to trim . . . Jack Kearns has averaged $25,000 or better for his last four boxing shows in Detroit and the hard hitting heavyweight Jimmy Adamick, has been on every card . . . Wrestling Promoter Jack Pfefer tells friends the New York State Athletic commission picks on him because he tells the truth about wrestling—namely that it is an enterprise overflowing with phony boloney.

Experts Study Method of Stopping Di Maggio

Joe Di Maggio

Joe Di Maggio stands farther back from the plate now than he did when he joined the Yankees. This has caused smart baseball men who observed the World series to wonder if the old Coast league method of occasionally getting him out might not be effective once more. That is to throw him a high fast one and then follow up with a side arm sinker . . . Joe Page, the veteran sportsman who never has missed a World series game, will be a judge during the racing at Havana's Oriental park this winter.

Lefty Gomez is such a determined sports fan that he even pays his way into wrestling shows . . . Colonel Jake Ruppert can develop the best ball clubs and throw the worst parties of any one in the world . . . Sports Writer Henry McLemore looks enough like Dunc Munro, the former great hockey player, to be his twin . . . John Honey Russell, Jewels' basketball forward, also is a school teacher and a sports booking agent . . . If his health keeps up Denny Shute is close to even money to win his third straight P. G. A. title next year. The Shawnee golf course, scene of the 1938 title affair, is made to order for his game . . . Don't sell that Princeton team short just because of the Cornell disaster.

Bill Terry and Travis Jackson don't see how Keller, Newark's hard-hitting outfielder, can miss being a Yankee star in 1939 . . . Keller, by the way, played across the river all summer but never visited New York until Colonel Ruppert tossed a victory dinner for the Bears after their Little World series triumph.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

FRIENDS insist Walter Hagen will be back in this country next summer for one more fling at the big golf tourneys. One of them, who recently visited with him in Europe for several weeks, says the Haig now is in better shape than at any time during the last seven years . . . Howard Harpster, last year's coach, now is employed by a Pittsburgh electric company . . . Jock Sutherland has three good men for each position on his Pitt squad. . . . Injuries may wreck them but right now N. Y. U.'s opportunists can be tabbed as the best of the met elevens . . . Army may be stronger than most people suspect if this new fullback, Frontzak, lives up to the glowing promises.

While Yale is weeping about a sad Frosh football squad Coach Johnny Gorman rejoices concerning the best Cubs ever seen at Princeton. Ninety-four young Tigers, including 15 prep and high school candidates are out for the team. The best of them is a husky named Jackson from Exeter. Scouts from Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth, who had been trying to sell him their own brand of higher education, say he probably is the best backfield prospect in the country . . . Fordham Coach Jim Crowley still can heave a pretty nifty forward pass . . . A young man panhandling on Eleecker street near the Mills hotel in New York city insists he is a former Olympic champion.

The Red Sox will be torn apart during the winter with only Cronin, Jack Wilson, Higgins, Grove and McNair being fairly sure of their jobs while the club looks for a slugging outfielder, a top-flight catcher and a few winning pitchers. Incidentally, Business Manager Collins continues to get most of the blame from Boston's citizens who consider Angel-Owner Young Tom Yawkey more to be pitied than censured . . . Columbia's coaches wish the big, blond Hub Schulze, handsome enough for Hollywood, didn't have a disposition as perfect as his looks. Believe he could be All-America if he could really get mean . . . They also give Larry Kelley plenty of credit for his pass-snatching ability but say he was far away from being a high-class end.

At Fordham they say both the White House and Jim Farley tried to arrange a football meeting between the Middies and the Rams. But, although it would have been a sellout and Navy is almost as greedy as West Point, the Sailors begged to be excused. After various pleas they were quoted finally admitting that Fordham was "just too good." . . . Shame Boston writers put Golf Champion Ralph Guhldahl on the pan so strenuously when he was there for the Belmont open. The guy's merely colorful, probably the most colorful open champ since Sarazen . . . Sam Snead, his pro golf colleagues tell you, is on his way down unless he stops trying to win all those driving contests. They say he strains so for distance that he subconsciously wrecks the smoothness of his swing.

Mack's Illness May Keep Him Out in '38

Connie Mack

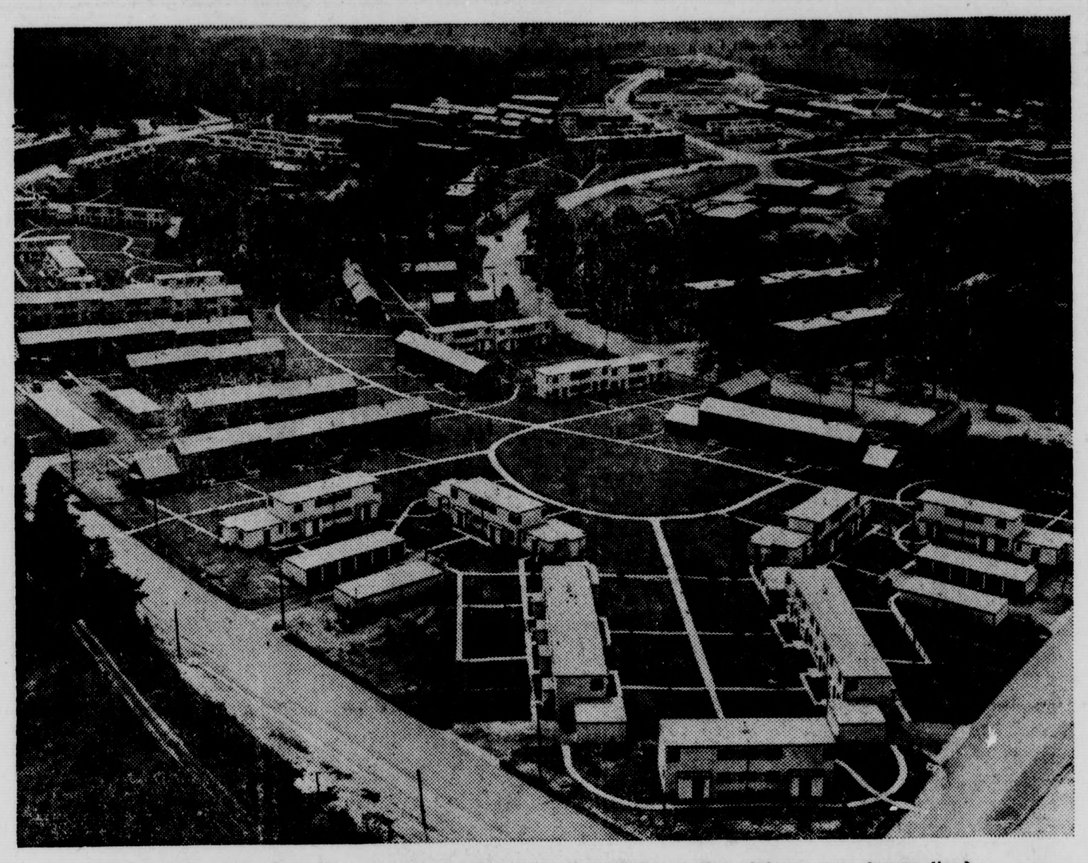
Connie Mack is a very sick man and may not be able to resume managing the A's next spring. But the Macks are long lived. Connie's brother, Mike, is well and healthy at eighty-four and is a ticket taker at Shibe park . . . It costs the Giants $25,000 each spring to repaint the Polo grounds . . . There's a Giants' pitcher to whom Manager Bill Terry did not speak during the season. When it was the pitcher's turn to work he was informed of the fact by Coach Adolfo Luque . . . Gabby Hartnett practically ran the Dodgers whenever they played the Cubs this year, he knew their signals so well . . . When last seen Dizzy Dean was sprouting any number of gray hairs . . . Tony Cuccinello credits Boston's cool summers for his comeback. He gets lots of sleep there and never tires as he did when a Dodger . . . Worst thing about managing a tail ender, says Jim Bottomley, is how long each day seems. "When you're up there, neck and neck in September, time flies and it's a pleasure to play."

Ky Laffoon may do his golf proing for a new club next year. Wants more do-re-mi than he is getting now, his pals say . . . There is plenty of information in the new book "Winning Football," written by Coach Bernie Bierman . . . Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers and Middleweight Contender Fred Apostoli like to fill up with cantaloupe and ice cream after their fights . . . Joe DiMaggio relates that Papa Dominic DiMaggio's first crabfishing boat was named the Libia after a famous Italian warship of a generation ago.

Tarzan White, pro football Giant guard, wrestled in Central America and Mexico during the summer. Tarzan's brother is a member of the coast guard . . . Dan Zeller, N. Y. U. tackle, belongs to the Chem Mendel, a chemistry society . . . Paul Mooney, basketball coach, and Ed Kennedy, swimming mentor, like to watch their colleague, Lou Little, coach his Columbia footballers . . . Kennedy also dotes upon telling about his toy bulldog.

FIRST OF 'TUGWELLTOWNS' IS BORN

Families Start Moving Into 885 Houses of Model Community Built by Resettlement Administration at Greenbelt, Md.



Greenbelt, Md., as seen from the air. Here the first of Tugwell's visions may be realized.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

ONE of Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell's principal Utopias is now open for business, and some say it's good and some say it's bad. At any rate, the first families have moved into Greenbelt, Md., "model town" of the resettlement administration formerly headed by Tugwell, and perhaps we shall one day see just how effective the co-operative, slumless community can be.

A year ago this time Greenbelt was the target of much criticism concerning high costs, waste and venture of the federal government into "collectivism," "communism," and other horrible social and economic isms which, during the heated days of the last presidential campaign, were grouped under one general head—"Tugwellism." Friends of the project usually had defenses for these charges; what you believe is probably greatly influenced by the trend of your politics. The important thing today is that the experiment is definitely under way, and is soon to be followed by counterparts in other sections of the nation.

Greenbelt, with its 885 housing units, rests on a crescent-shaped plateau, 12 miles outside Washington, D. C. Standing sentinel over the town is a belt of green trees from which it gets its name. Mirroring it is an artificial lake of some 25 acres.

Here 885 families, hand-picked to give the project the greatest chance of success, will find homes at rents varying from $18 to $41 a month. Their local government will be run by an ultra-modern city manager, under the first city manager charter to be granted by the state of Maryland. All the community's business will be directed and conducted by a Rochdale co-operative, which was sponsored by the late Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant. Settlers who buy shares in the "consumer distribution corporation" will receive rebates at all the stores in the community.

Inhabitants Carefully Selected.

It is not easy for a family to be admitted to life in Greenbelt. The resettlement administration has taken every precaution in selecting the tenants and, purportedly, political "pull" doesn't mean a thing. First, all persons with incomes of $1,000 to $2,100, who were interested, were asked to register with RA, giving name, residence, income and other information; hundreds were dropped immediately on the basis of this preliminary data. Those whose applications survived were asked for more detailed information about themselves, and this was checked by officials. The candidates were then visited in their homes, their character and credit ratings investigated and their references verified. The final selections were made on the basis of a summary of all these findings. If Greenbelt is to succeed, the durability of its buildings must be matched by the integrity and sincerity of its inhabitants.

These tenants will be living in the most completely planned community in America. Where they may have lived in city slums, with poor environment for their children, they are now set down in the rolling green hills of Maryland, where fresh air is plentiful, where there is a good school, where their budgets will allow them to live as well as their much wealthier city neighbors.

Greenbelt's citizens can go to and from work in the city, if they like, by bus. At home in the evening after the day's labors they can putter around in a garden. They will have a real share in the community life, the opportunity to enjoy lake sports and free range of several thousand beautiful acres of town land.

The houses are white with ensemble grouping and harmonizing architecture. The drive and walks are flanked with trees, most of them still young. There are as few traffic hazards as possible, with every imaginable precaution for safety having been taken. All highways are crossed by means of underpasses, so that the children who attend the two schools will not find it necessary to watch out for automobiles.

Queer at first do Greenbelt's houses appear to the uninitiated, for the front doors are at the back, if that is not taxing the reader's logic. In other words, they face on the open space at the rear, rather than on the street. They are durable and attractive, but not ornate.

Kitchens Are Sensibly Modern.

Foundations are of concrete and roofs of tinted slate. Broad casement windows assure plenty of sunlight, and plenty of air. In this climate the summers are likely to be hot, but ceilings of poured concrete, reinforced with steel rods, keep the rooms cool. Brass-capped door sills combine with copper weather sheathing to banish drafts. Foundations and walls have been built to last a hundred years, but they have not been foolishly planned to outlast the Coliseum in Rome. Closets are of knotty pine, and oak is used on stairways only where they are most likely to be trod upon.

Kitchens are modern, compact, economical—but not faddish. There are metal cupboards with deep shelves and smooth, easy-dusting doors. Sinks are of enamel and bathroom walls are covered with inexpensive waterproof paint. All fixtures are sturdy and in good taste.

Greenbelt's business and community center at the head of the residential crescent, includes a mercantile building, a municipal garage, a fire-house, a town inn, a restaurant and a school. The latter is perhaps the most remarkable building. Gray concrete pilasters flank its sides like inverted flying buttresses. There is a chiseled frieze of cubist characters. Interiors are the ultimate in scientific design. The buttresses support the walls of a spacious gymnasium. Light brown walls and great expanses of white plaster help to diffuse the plentiful sunlight which enters corridors and school rooms through windows and glass brick panels built into the walls. Students keep their belongings in individual lockers. The outer wall of each classroom is of transparent glass, stretching almost the entire height of the room. Conditions such as these are about all a teacher could ask for.

All commercial operations are conducted by the consumers' corporation. Two per cent of the gross revenue will be turned over to the federal government as rent; any remaining profits will be returned to the customers as dividends. Operated on this plan will be a general merchandise store, a drug store, a food and meat market, a motion picture theater, a barber shop, a beauty parlor and a garage and service station. When and if the community decides it does not like this system, it may adopt a new one.

There are no churches in Greenbelt but free land is available for them if community groups desire to build them. Greenbelters are given plenty of opportunity to contribute their share toward the beautifying of the town. Anyone may secure the head gardener's advice at any time free of charge. Trees or bushes for landscaping may be obtained free from the town nursery to which they were transplanted when the land was cleared.

This Is "Tugwelltown."

Greenbelt epitomizes Professor Tugwell's philosophy. He said its aim was:

"To obtain a large tract of land and thus avoid the complications ordinarily due to diverse ownerships; in this tract to create a community, protected by an encircling green belt; the community to be designed primarily for families of modest incomes, and arranged and managed so as to encourage a family and community life which will be better than they now enjoy, but which will not involve subjecting them to coercive or theoretical and untested discipline.

"The dwellings and the land upon which they are located are to be held in one ownership, preferably a public agency to which the federal government will transfer title, and which agency will rent or lease the dwellings but will not sell them; a municipal government to be set up, in character with such governments now existing or possible in that region; co-ordination to be established, in relation to the local and state governments, so that there may be provided those public services of educational and other character which the community will require; and, finally, to accomplish these purposes in such a way that the community may be a taxpaying participant in the region, that extravagant outlays from the individual family income will not be necessary, and that the rents will be suitable to families of modest income.

"To develop a land-use plan for the entire tract; to devise a system of rural economy co-ordinated with the land-use plan for the rural portions of the tract surrounding the suburban community; and to integrate both the physical plans and the economies of the rural area and the suburban community."

Whether or not the model town can be regarded as the answer to the low-cost housing program, even if Greenbelt succeeds as a happy, prospering community, depends on how you look at it. It has been pointed out by opponents that the project cost far too much and that there were too many delays, allegedly attributable to "government efficiency," in its construction.

What Sponsors Contend.

Only 885 families may be housed in Greenbelt, opponents point out, yet the cost is $14,227,000, or more than $16,000 a house. The government's estimated net return on the investment, they say, is less than ½ of 1 per cent. Even if interest were waived, it would take 237 years to repay the cost.

Against this the sponsors reply that it is unfair to pro-rate the cost among the houses alone, for it includes the business buildings, landscaping and many other things. Presumably their answer would have been the same if the cost had been regarded $16,000 per family.

Also there is the argument that the "made work," transient relief labor and such, skyrocketed the cost. They contend that low-cost housing is spreading and that repayments under the Wagner act will be more generous than those at Greenbelt. They attempt to show that costs of slum conditions are indirect but that they are even greater than the cost to the government of subsidizing model communities; that well-built homes are in the long run cheaper than flimsier dwellings built for sale; and the Greenbelt accountants write off a third of the total cost as excess labor costs, more directly chargeable to work relief than to the Greenbelt residents.

Household Questions

Opening Jars.—A strap with a buckle on one end can be used to good advantage in opening glass fruit jars. Run the strap through the buckle and tighten it around the cap. This enables you to get a good grip on the lid.

Small Molds for Pudding.—In place of one large basin for a steamed pudding, try several small molds, placing them all in one large saucepan. They will take half as long to cook as one large pudding.

Preserving Bright Color.—Cooking preserves or jelly rapidly helps to retain the bright color of the fruit. The addition of pectin shortens the necessary cooking time.

Using Kerosene Safely.—One of the safest ways of using kerosene is to mix it with wood or coal ashes, then use a few spoonfuls of this mixture when starting or rekindling a fire. This can be stored for regular use in a gallon bucket or other suitable container.

Just for a Change.—If you cannot afford to buy anything new for the house and you are just a little bit disinterested this fall, try changing the position of the furniture and see if that bored feeling will not depart.

Dried Peel.—It is nice to dry the skins of several oranges and lemons and grate them, then putting them in a glass bottle in the refrigerator to be kept for flavoring purposes. It certainly saves time in the future and one is inclined to use these flavorings in interesting ways if already at hand.

Crab Savory.—1 crab, 3 tomatoes, 1 lettuce, watercress, 1 egg, pepper and salt. Shred the crab meat finely and mix with a little mayonnaise. Wash the lettuce and arrange leaves around and at the bottom of the dish. Place some crab in the center, then season with pepper and salt; add slices of tomato and hard-boiled egg and watercress.

Spaghetti and Cheese.—A nice way of preparing spaghetti that does not require lighting the oven. Fry one chopped onion and one-half pound ground meat in olive oil until nicely browned. Add two cups tomato puree or sifted tomato pulp, one teaspoon paprika, salt and pepper to taste. When nicely blended serve over plain boiled spaghetti and over the top sprinkle finely grated cheese.

BUSTER BEAR IS INTRODUCED

NONE of the little people who were there ever will forget how Buster Bear was introduced in the Green Forest. It was the funniest introduction any of them can remember. They laugh now whenever they think of it, though at the time some of them didn't laugh at all. No, indeed! The truth is some of them were too frightened to see anything funny. You see, it happened like this:

Jimmy Skunk had met Buster Bear up by the pond of Paddy the Beaver deep in the Green Forest and he had made Buster Bear get out of his way. Peter Rabbit had seen him do it, and of course Peter had told every one he met. Every one had expressed a great deal of admiration for Jimmy Skunk until Peter came to Prickly Porky the Porcupine. Prickly Porky had said that it was nothing to make Buster Bear get out of the way and that he would do the same thing if some one would invite Buster Bear to come down where he was. Jumper the Hare had offered to go invite Buster Bear and Reddy Fox had planned to prevent Jumper ever getting near Buster Bear. So Reddy had hidden where he could jump out at Jumper and perhaps catch him. Along had come Jumper, and just as Reddy was getting ready to spring he had heard a step behind him and had turned to look right straight in the face of Buster Bear!

Now, Reddy Fox is a coward. He always has been a coward. Perhaps he can't help it, but anyway he is a coward. When he saw who it was behind him he gave one frightened yelp and then he put his tail between his legs and he started for home faster than ever he had run before.

The minute Reddy started to run Jumper the Hare started after him. Reddy can run fast, but Jumper as you know, can run faster. So he had no trouble in keeping right at Reddy's heels. But Reddy didn't know this. He was so frightened that he didn't stop to look back, and when he heard some one just behind him he thought it was Buster Bear, and tried to run harder. As for Buster Bear himself, he was so tickled at the sight of Reddy Fox chased by timid Jumper the Hare that he started after them as fast as he could go so as to see what would happen next.

At the foot of the tree in which sat Prickly Proky, were several of the little people of the Green Forest gossiping about Buster Bear and wondering if Jumper the Hare really would invite Buster Bear to meet them. No one excepting Prickly Porky believed he would. Prickly Porky knew Jumper better than the others because they had both come from the same Great Woods to live in the Green Forest. Suddenly there was a great racket. Everybody looked up to see what it meant. There came Reddy Fox running as if he thought his very last minute had come and right at his heels was Jumper the Hare! It looked just us if Reddy was running away from Jumper, and everybody shouted with laughter. Reddy didn't stop. Oh, my no! He kept right on. But Jumper stopped.

"I've brought my old friend, Buster Bear, to introduce him," said Jumper, and as he spoke with a great huffing and puffing, Buster Bear himself came crashing into their midst.

All the laughter stopped right then and there. You never, never did see such a frightened scampering! Unc' Billy Possum and Happy Jack Squirrel got in each other's way as they tried to climb the same tree. Striped Chipmunk tried to crawl into a hole too small for him. Bobby Coon fell backward from an old stump on which he was sitting. Only Jimmy Skunk and Prickly Porky seemed unafraid. Buster Bear sat up and his little eyes twinkled and he grinned broadly as he said: "I'm ever so glad to meet you and I hope we'll get better acquainted when you are not in such a hurry."

SPOON BREAD IS ALWAYS POPULAR

Water-Ground Corn Meal Gives It Perfect Touch.

By EDITH M. BARBER

NO MATTER how much you may enjoy a meal as a whole, there is usually one dish which furnishes the highlight and therefore, stands out in your memory. At least, I find that this is the case. It was spoon bread which one of my friends gave us for Sunday supper and which heightened our enjoyment of the baked ham, deviled eggs, the hot biscuits and the green salad which our host mixed himself with a deft hand.

When I questioned Alice-from-Virginia, the cook, I found, as I had suspected, that old-fashioned water-ground corn meal had done its part in producing a perfect spoon bread than which there is nothing better. Of course, as the French say about spinach, it is death to butter.

Corn meal of this type is appreciated in some places of the North as well as it is in the South.

Up in Rhode Island the wheels of an old mill are turning again to produce the principal ingredient of the famous griddle-baked Johnny cake for which that state is famous. The title, by the way, is a corruption of the word "journey," upon many of which these cakes of corn meal furnished the only supplement to the fish from the streams and the game from the forests.

Spoon Bread.

1½ tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups water ground corn meal
1 cup boiling water
2 cups milk
2 eggs, beaten lightly
2 teaspoons baking powder

Mix butter, sugar and salt with the meal, scald with boiling water and add milk, well beaten eggs and baking powder. Pour into buttered baking pan and cook slowly, 325 degrees Fahrenheit, for forty-five minutes.

Johnny Cakes.

1 cup water ground corn meal
Boiling water
1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ teaspoon salt

Scald corn meal with enough boiling water to make a drop batter. Stir in melted butter and salt. Mix until very smooth. Drop batter from spoon in dabs onto hot greased griddle. When brown on one side, turn over and brown on the other.

Scalloped Potatoes and Eggs.

2 hard-boiled eggs
2 cups diced cooked potatoes
½ cup minced ham
1½ cups white sauce
¾ cup bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter

Slice the eggs and arrange in a baking dish in alternate layers with the diced potatoes. Sprinkle each layer with minced ham and cover with white sauce. Sprinkle the top with crumbs, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are brown.

Nut Wafers.

2 tablespoons butter
1½ cups brown sugar
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
¼ cup flour
½ cups chopped nuts.

Cream butter, stir in sugar, add egg and water. Add flour mixed with nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a baking sheet, greased with an unsalted fat or oil, at least two inches apart. Bake about seven minutes in a moderate oven, 325 degrees Fahrenheit, until brown. Remove from oven, let stand half a minute and remove from baking sheet with spatula. If last wafers get too hard to remove easily return to the oven a minute and then remove.

Tomato Preserves.

4 pounds ripe tomatoes
5 cups sugar
1 lemon

Scald and peel tomatoes. Leave tomatoes whole. Add sugar and let stand overnight. Add thinly sliced lemon and cook until the mixture is clear and thick.

Melba Sauce.

½ cup currant jelly
½ cup sugar
1 cup pulp and juice of raspberries
½ tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water

Add jelly and sugar to raspberries, and bring mixture to the boiling point. Mix cornstarch with cold water and stir into raspberry mixture. Stir over medium fire until the mixture is thick and clear. Strain and cool.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By Roger B. Whitman

CONDENSATION ON WALLS AND CEILINGS

ALTHOUGH the air in a house may seem dry during the heating season, there are times when there will be enough moisture in it to cause condensation. The effect may not be recognized as coming from condensation, although there can be no other explanation.

For an example, I was once asked to explain the continual peeling of calcimine on the ceiling of a downstairs hall. The door to the kitchen was at one end of the hall, and it was on that part of the ceiling that the peeling was worst. The reason was obvious. The kitchen air was damp from cooking and also from the water vapor produced by the burning of gas in the range. This damp and warm air rose and passed out into the hall along the ceiling. The ceiling plaster being comparatively cool, there was condensation against it, and it was this dampening of the calcimine that caused peeling. One possible cure was to put a ventilator in an upper part of one of the kitchen windows; an electric fan to draw the kitchen air outdoors. Another was to replace the calcimine on the ceiling with enamel or with waterproof paint.

Condensation is a very usual reason for the peeling of calcimine and paint on ceilings. It is particularly likely on upstairs ceilings under an unheated attic. The ceilings are cold, moisture in the air condenses against them, and peeling follows. This moisture may come from kitchen and laundry work, from steam from hot baths and showers, from over-use of a humidifier and other causes.

The pattern of lath, so often seen on upstairs ceilings, is one effect of condensation. Moisture picked up by the plaster, dries off quickly in the spaces between laths, but much less quickly in the plaster over a lath; dust collects and is held by the dampness, and the pattern of the lathing becomes evident.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

By JEAN

© By The Associated Newspapers

I DON'T know why it's considered so terrible to drop a hairpin into one's soup. But that's neither here nor there, for from all that we can gather dropping hairpins into soup just isn't right. Sometimes, however, a hairpin drops from an animated head without warning. And then the big problem is what to do about it.

If you're lucky you may have a gay young blade sitting beside you who can think up a smart quip about tin in the soup instead of soup in the tin, or something like that, and you can retrieve your hairpin under a cloud of merriment. If, however, your dinner partner hasn't seen the catastrophe it's best to try to continue sipping your soup as though nothing had happened. Then you can keep your eye on him until he starts gesticulating with his soup spoon to some one on the other side. That is your moment. With a swift motion you can then pull the hairpin out. And if some one catches you at it just say it's a habit with you. You always have to get the cherry out of the bottom of the glass.

A Trio of Triumphs

THE way to day-in, day-out chic for the woman who sews is shown in today's attractive new three-way plan. It goes deeper than the surface, you see, in the presentation of a sleek new slip. Ah, and it gives great thought to the surface, as you can't help but note in the two wing-side models.

Spicy New Model.

As shipshape as a Parisian streamline fashion and, in its own role, as important—that's the little number at the left above. It does wonders to give one that up and doing feeling that's handy to have around the house in the morning. Make this frock in gay cotton: shantung, print, gingham, or crash.

A Congenial Slip.

Beneath a well-groomed surface hangs a perfect fitting slip! That's an old and honest notion and one Sew-Your-Own abides by religiously. Today's five piece version is as easy to put together as it is congenial to your comfort and outward superbness. Make two while you're about it: one with a plain top for everyday, the other with a bit of frou-frou for dress-up occasions.

Deft Design.

The "girl in the little green hat" wears a dress with many tucks in this her latest picture. It is the dress for you, Milady, to star in at familiar Fall festivities. Deftly but definitely it gives you emphasis where you want it; soft pedals worry-areas. Wool is smart material and it fits this frock's personality to a T. Let's sew and be seen places this Fall. Okay?

The Patterns.

Pattern 1389 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4⅜ yards of 35-inch material, or 4½ yards, with long sleeves.

Pattern 1983 is designed in sizes 34 to 46. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 yard of ribbon for shoulder straps, and 1½ yards of edging for finishing upper edge.

Pattern 1392 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 54-inch fabric.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 149 New Montgomery Ave., San Francisco, Calif. Patterns 15 cents (in coins) each.

New Post Office Is Flooded With Letters Anent Origin Of Pedro Valley Title

Since the opening of the new Pedro Valley post office, a number of letters and cards have been received by Mrs. Stanley Blume, the postmistress, inquiring how Pedro got its name. From all one is able to find out, Pedro, an old Spanish name, which signifies a stone, or rock, is indicated on the United States Geodetic coast maps, as Point San Pedro, the prefix "San" giving it a link-up with none other than the good old Saint Peter, in plain English.

What evidently inclined the first Spanish explorers to give the region this name was, in all probability, the presence of the majestic rocks that mark the entrance to Shelter Cove, at the extreme tip of Pt. San Pedro, like the stern old saint standing at the gateway to Heaven.

Many of the local names of this engaging spot on the coast follow suit and are respectively; Pedro Valley, the flat, sunny ranchland reaching several miles inland; Pedro beach, one of the fascinating indentations that curve around the point; Pedro creek, that irrigates the broad Valley; and finally, the rugged heights of Pedro Mountain, where the old highway turned and twisted a perilous path on the way to Montara, the next town south.

This entire region is well worth visiting and exploring, for those who are in search of scenes novel and unspoiled. No doubt the opening of the new 101 Highway will bring many hosts of nature-lovers and those who enjoy delving into the history of interesting places, to see for themselves what scenic spots lie within easy distance of San Francisco.

Coeds To Entertain Visiting Hockeyites

San Mateo Junior College coeds will entertain hockey teams from Marin, Santa Rosa, and San Francisco Junior Colleges, Saturday, November 6, at a hockey field day. In addition, the Junior College Riding Club will invite the coed riders from the same schools to ride at San Mateo and then attend the hockey teams luncheon.

Following the ride the visitors, along with the hockey players, will be guests of San Mateo at the San Mateo-San Francisco football game.

Given Pointers On Use Of Iron Lung

Sunday morning of this week the Daly City Firemen assembled at the Villa Sanitarium, at 10 o'clock, where they received instruction in the use of the new Drinker Collins Respirator, recently purchased by Superintendent Joseph Sarto, who, with the assistance of Dr. William Lynch, demonstrated the iron lung.

The injured youth was treated at the Junipero Serra Hospital.

ROCKAWAY BEACH PEDRO VALLEY

By C. H. T.

The big news of the week is, of course, the opening of the Pedro Valley Post Office, with Mrs. Stanley Blume as postmaster. The place has been neatly arranged to take care of the mail, and boxes are promised to be available by the first of the year. This local post office means an increase of convenience for the Pedro residents, of which they will gladly take advantage. Already the bus that carries the mail is using the new highway unit in delivering mail to and from the office. A former post office was established many years ago in Pedro, but the population was so small that in 1919 the station was abandoned. Now, with so many new residents, and a prospect of many more to come, the post office should flourish as a welcome institution. Mrs. Blume will be a conscientious postmaster, doing good work for the community and government. Congratulations and best wishes for her in the new Post Office!

Sunday visitors at the home of William Beeler and wife, were Mayor Jack Lawson of the Bayshore, his sister and brother-in-law, his daughter, Gladys and her friend, Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Mermann, and a number of other guests, making ten in all. Mrs. Beeler declares that "they were lovely people, and that she and Will enjoyed every minute of the visit." The party, knowing how difficult it is for Mrs. Beeler to do marketing down here, were thoughtful in bringing supplies for the bountiful luncheon, and realizing that their hostess has been ill recently, the young people took command of the kitchen and did all the work themselves.

By the time Mac is full grown he promises to be about the size of an old fashioned dining-room table with all the extension leaves in place.

Guests at a Chinese luncheon given by Grace Danmann last Tuesday were: Mrs. Nora Christen, with two of her San Francisco friends, and Mrs. Lillian Glosser and Mrs. Alse Marks of Pedro. The novel menu consisted of dishes prepared skilfully in true Chinese fashion, topped off by a couple of fluffy lemon pies which were not Chinese at all, but decidedly American, and thoroughly enjoyed by all the guests.

The George Beavers, whose fine new garage has recently been built on Belfast avenue, Pedro, are leveling off their grounds with the assistance of "Little Casino," gardener and flower expert.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Haugaard entertained supper guests at their beach home in Shelter Cove, last Sunday, including Miss Estelle Rogers of Chicago and San Francisco.

Sunday episode at the Pat Dempsed residence featured a group of San Francisco boys as follows:

Harry, Charlie, Frenchy and Bill
Went to Dempsey's on the hill,
Helped Pat pile some lumber, first,
Then drank beer to quench their thirst.

The Clyde Garners are adding a patio to their pretty home on Grande avenue, Pedro. Their garden is being prepared for the winter rains and the spring blooming.

The Karl Strutzes are still in Pedro, nowithstanding reports to the contrary. They plan to see the winter through if the hill road can be adequately surfaced before the rains begin. At present it is in a deplorable condition, and ruinous for cars that must travel on it. It is hoped that the powers-that-be will attend to this matter as speedily as possible, and thus make everybody happy.

Mrs. Becky Johnson is busy in her garden these soft, warm autumn days, and just when she thinks everything is finished, something else pops up to be done. But "it's a great life," and Mrs. J. doesn't weaken, no matter how much has to be accomplished. That's the spirit for Pedro!

Mayor Roddy has been ill for the past few weeks, but he is said to be on the mend and ready to get to work again. The newly constructed water tank overlooking the Grande avenue glen, is nearing completion, a valuable adjunct to the water supply in Pedro.

It is stated that the new highway in its entire length from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, is scheduled to be officially opened Nov. 1. This is good news. We hope it's true.

McLaglen Kin In Extortion Plot; Target Wizard Says Was Target

Leopold McLaglen, brother of Victor McLaglen, motion picture actor, and Stanley Glimm, former secretary to a Hollywood millionaire, were arrested in Los Angeles recently in connection with an asserted extortion plot. The sheriff's office said the arrest was ordered after an investigation into alleged attempts to obtain money from Philip Chancellor, Glimm's ex-employer. Photo shows Chancellor, a famed pistol expert, and his wife, posing at a target range in their home.

AMAZON LOSES IN HARD FRAY WITH OLYMPIANS

Consideration of Men As Inferior During Portrayal Of Comedy Sends Actress To Hospital

Ann Pendleton, who plays the part of Antiope, an Amazon princess, in "The Warrior's Husband" at the Alcazar this week, is just that, an Amazon, off the stage as well as on. Following the first nights's performanie the blond Miss Pendleton was taken to a hospital for attention for injuries her Amazonian viger brought about in a scene with Theseus (Max West).

It is Antiope's part to consider all men inferior, physically and mentally minus and generally de trop; her end in life to subdue them. She succeeds in doing this for two acts, but in the third she grapples with the whole Olympian population and bests them. In doing so the other night she forgot Thespis in tackling Theseus and came out of the fray with painfully wrenched knuckles. Being a true Amazon, she refused to take time out for the following performance.

"The Warrior's Husband" will continue for another week at least. It is drawing excellent business and seems to be the type of comedy wanted by the public at the moment.

ANOTHER VANISHING SNIPER AT LARGE

A second "phantom gunman" is at large in San Mateo County.

A report was filed, Wednesday of this week, in the sheriff's office to the effect that a slug whizzed into the home of C. P. Harbison in East Palo Alto and smashed a vase.

Will Battle For League Honors

Battling San Mateo on the home field, the Jefferson Indians make their fourth attack on the league ladder this afternoon.

San Mateo, a pre-season favorite has been toppled twice this year and it at present on the bottom rung. A victory over the Indians would lift them out of the cellar, however, and drop the Indians back to where they were last year, on the bottom.

Without Balletto, the Indians are not as powerful as when they faced South City, but are still very much in the race for league honors.

OBSERVATION OF VARIOUS THINGS IN OUR CAPITAL

Poisons And Rubies Is The Strange Combination Indulged By Noted Chemist

(By Hart Goodrich)

At the mention of poisons and precious stones we immediately think of old stories of the Italian Borgios, poison rings, and such opposites of personality in one person as were found in Cellini, artist and murderer, and Leonardo da Vinci, painter of Mona Lisa's smile and maker of engines designed for slaughter in warfare.

Washington has its own candidate for honors in odd combinations of professions and hobbies in Professor G. Everett Marsh of the Institute of Criminal Science. His profession is the tracing of poisons. His hobby, the making of precious gems.

Did you know that science can and does make a ruby that is finer in color, harder in substance, more brilliant in refraction and of exactly the same constitution as nature's, at a cost that is so ridiculously low that nobody wants them? Dr. Marsh can make you a ruby more perfect than those for which the sweating Burmese delve into the bowels of the earth.

All of the precious stones which belong to the sapphire family of gems can be so reproduced. Rubies are sapphires in a high degree of blushing. Other precious or semi-precious stones cannot be duplicated by man; they can only be imitated.

Diamonds have been reproduced, it is true, but they have been microscopic in size and not of any practical value.

When the ruby process became so general as to be commercially attempted, the ruby market dropped with a bang and then rose again until now it is at its old very precious normal. The person able to own either a ruby or a sapphire scorns to wear one "made by hand."

Dr. Marsh thinks the chief value of the synthetic stone is in its remarkable adaptability to the needs of the jewelry designer—he can make the stone fit into his design instead of having to fit the design to the stone.

But back to Dr. Marsh's profession. The professor has developed in his forensic chemical researches a method whereby the poisons most commonly encountered in the crime field, the arsenics and cyanides, may be more quickly and surely discovered in the human system. Its value lies in speeding up the processes of criminal investigation without sacrificing either accuracy or completeness.

Dr. Marsh says that poisoning as a method of criminal expression has died out proportionately to the increase of scientific invasion of the criminal field. So long as a poison semed to offer the criminal a "safe" method of slaying, history shows a large number of such crimes.

Licenses for the production and handling of poisons have limited the possibility of their use to definite fields. Nowadays it is almost possible to determine the very store from which a poison has been purchased within a few hours, and in some cases within a few minutes, of the time the crime involving its use has been discovered. Another step in mans battle with anti-social forces has been taken by scientific research.

Resident Of Daly City 8 Years Dies

Robb C. Ralph, 55, was found dead in bed at his home at Junipero boulevard and San Pedro avenue, Saturday of last week.

Apparently the victim of a heart attack, Ralph, who had resided here eight years, is survived by three sisters and a brother, Mrs. Irma Meserol of San Mateo, Mrs. Ethel Trefry, Mrs. Hazel McKenna and Arthur Ralph.

Surviving relatives are a brother, Arthur Ralph, and three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Trefry, Mrs. Hazel McKenna, and Mrs. Irma Meserole.

Funeral services were held at the W. C. Lasswell and Company chapel, with interment in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

OIL FILTER TEST

When an oil filter feels cold after the car has been warmed up by running, it is a sign that the filter is not functioning properly.

When a filter is working right it will feel warm after the motor has been running, due to the temperature of the oil circulating through it.

BAYSHORE NEWS

Mayor and Mrs. J. Lawson are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Hauten of Denver, Colorado, at their home. Mrs. Van Hauten is Mayor Lawson's sister. They will remain for an indefinite stay. Mrs. Van Hauten was a former school teacher of Denver but is now retired.

The Bayshore Fire Boys did things up fine when they held their dinner last Monday night. The dinner was held at the Four Mile House and was served Italian style. Dinner and refreshments were on the Club. Those present were Les Parker, B. Klingborg, H. Carson, A. Taylor, A. King, T. Mangel, C. Richards, H. Filarski, C. Quinn, J. Walling, W. Mardecich and F. Beckel.

The Board of Trustees of the Visitacion School District met last Monday evening at the Bayshore school. A report was made that P. W. A. help for the Bayshore Auditorium would not be forthcoming. Provision had been made for this emergency in this year's budget and the board voted to proceed with the auditorium without further delay. Mr. Edwards, district architect, was instructed to send plans and specifications to Sacramento for approval and as soon as this formality is taken care of bids will be called for. The trustees will soon discuss ways and means for the erection of an additional room for the Brisbane School. Attendance has so increased that more room will be needed in the very near future in Brisbane. Watchmen will be placed in both schools on Hallowe'en night to prevent destruction.

The Higgins children were welcomed back to school Monday by their school mates after a long confinement in the house with scarlet fever.

Mrs. Jerry Toich will assist Mrs. Berta Hughes with the Girl Scouts in the future. Both young ladies are taking instruction at the San Francisco headquarters and will be well informed of Girl Scout ethics. The Girl Scouts whist held Friday evening was a grand success.

For the information of those who are inteersted in Civic Events of Bayshore, Fire Board meets in the Fire Hall, Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

HAWAII BEAUTY MURDER VICTIM

Not since the "Massie incident" has Honolulu been so stirred over a slaying as in the case of vivacious Arvella Kinslea, slain recently at a drinking party. Held in the case is David Kalakaua Kawananakoa, blood descendant of Hawaii's one-time rulers. The half-Hawaiian girl was found dead in a Waikiki beach cottage, having been struck with a soup bowl which severed an artery in her neck.

Bayshore City Council meets at the City Hall Tuesday evening, November 2, at 8:00 o'clock. Water District Board meets the same evening upon adjournment of the City Council also in the same hall.

PAINT STAINS

Paint stains on upholstery are usually difficult to remove and it is essential that fresh stains should be given attention before they become hard.

Fresh stains should be rubbed with a clean cloth saturated with turpentine.

WHEEL NOISE

Sudden or unusual noises from the vicinity of a wheel should be investigated without delay.

Occasionally an axle nut may come loose, or the nuts that hold the wheel in place may work loose. In either case serious damage may result if the condition is not corrected.

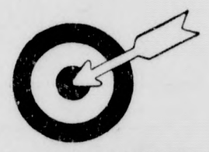
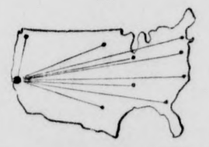
Hear the Better Programs now on the Air at their BEST



Accurate Precision Tuning for Perfect Living Tone



Local Stations Now Get the Nation's Best Programs

Is your radio three years old or more? Does it bring all the fine things that are on the air today just as if "you're there in person"? Make this test. Hear your favorite program on a 1938 High Fidelity Radio. Note the difference.

Here's why. Your local broadcasting stations have spent fortunes to send out programs with wider range and depth of tone. Voice and music go forth as living sound. But most of this is lost if YOUR radio receiving set does not bring in these programs as clear and beautiful as when they left the studio.

Let your ears be the judge. Listen to quality radio reception from a quality radio set in your own home. Improved tubes, easier and more accurate tuning and high fidelity mechanism bring you studio realism. Ask your electrical dealer for a home demonstration with a 1938 radio today.

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.
By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.
This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is unusually severe, one more tablet is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

Jerry Field was breathless from the effort of shaking off congratulatory hands which had tried to detain him.

"Changing her sandals at Lookout House. I've got to speak to you, Trent! Quick!"

Relief stopped the thumping of Mark Trent's heart. Had Brooke married Field, would he be here? He would not. He turned to Kowa still standing beside him and asked in a voice he had difficulty in keeping steady:

"Is anyone in the print room?"

The Jap disappeared and returned with incredible speed.

"No person there, sir."

Mark spoke in a low tone to Jerry Field:

"Slip into the room back of the stairs. Sam, tell the musicians to play something loud and gay; then join us. Now that we know Brooke is safe, Mrs. Gregory—"

"Mrs. Gregory is coming with us," Jed Stewart interrupted.

Even with the door of the room closed, the beat and rhythm of the music outside set the air within vibrating. A cheery fire crackled on the hearth. Incredibly long-stemmed Templar roses in a tall vase made a splash of gorgeous crimson against the neutral tinted walls hung with Japanese prints, scented the air with their spicy fragrance. Mrs. Gregory resisted the seductive depth of a large chair and sat erect on the edge.

"What's happened? What's happened?" she demanded testily.

"Wait a minute. Thought I heard something." Field pulled aside the hangings at the window and peered out; Jed Stewart on his toes looked over his shoulder. "Yep, there they go. Police are no respecters of supper parties."

Jerry Field drew the hangings close and returned to the mantel. The lighter he held to his cigarette was not quite steady. "Now, folks, listen to my bedtime story."

For an instant there was no sound in the still room save the purr of the fire and the tap of a snowy vine against a window. Then it seemed to Mark Trent that the woman in the deep chair, Sam Reyburn with his elbow resting on one corner of the low bookshelves, Jed Stewart backed against the door as if to barricade it, stopped breathing as Field told how Brooke had commandeered his roadster and himself to take her across the causeway, of the reason she had given for her going, of her suspicion that the man she called the Bath Crystal Bandit might be serving as waiter at the party because of interest in the jewels of one of the guests.

Mrs. Gregory instinctively put one hand to her tiara and one of the blazing plastron at her breast.

"I suppose you mean mine. W-when did they in-intend to take them?" she quavered.

Mark Trent crossed the room. He sat on the arm of her chair and put his hand on her shoulder.

"Steady, Empress, they can't get them now. Go on, Field. Then you and Brooke are not married?"

"Married! No such luck. Didn't I make that clear? Brooke told that yarn to avert suspicion from our get-away. Do you think I'd be here if we were married?" There was a glint of steel in his eyes as they met Mark Trent's.

"Where was I—oh yes. We made headquarters in record time. Brooke told her story. Your kitchen, Trent, was the scene of the neatest, quickest clean-up in the history of crime in this state, I'll bet. No, don't go. Inspector Harrison sent special instructions to you to keep things moving here so that the news of the arrests wouldn't get out until he had the men safely in jail. Sorry to report that you've lost your chauffeur, Mrs. Gregory."

"Dominique! Not Dominique? He's been with me for years. Why have I lost him?"

"He's been taken along for questioning. The inspector didn't have time to go into it here. The Jacques at Lookout House also are being personally conducted to headquarters. Quite a party, if you ask me. I didn't hear much, but your man Dominique, Mrs. Gregory, was to have engine trouble on the way home. While he tinkered, you were to be relieved of your jewels."

Anne Gregory's face was gray; it dropped into sagging lines, her mouth quivered childishly. Suddenly she was an old defeated woman.

"Isn't there anyone in the world I can trust?" she whimpered.

Mark Trent moved closer to her.

"Of course there's someone you can trust, you have Brooke and Sam, Jed and me, and—"

"Don't forget me," Jerry Field interrupted. "Now, who's come?" he queried.

The low quick knocking at the door was repeated. Jed Stewart opened it cautiously and let in a drift of dance music and Lucette.

Her lips were startlingly red in contrast to the whiteness of her face. The rhinestone straps which held up what there was of the back of the bodice of her pale blue frock sent out a million or two iridescent sparks. She caught the lapel of Mark Trent's coat as he took a quick step toward her.

"They're whispering outside that Brooke and Jerry Field have eloped. It isn't so, is it? Brooke wouldn't—"

Mark Trent turned her by the shoulders that she might see Jerry Field standing by the mantel. He saw the look in the girl's eyes, saw something in the man's spring up to meet it. He felt the quiver that ran through her body, felt the effort she made to overcome it as she said flippantly:

"News flash! Eloping bridegroom returns without lovely bride. Where's Brooke, Jerry?"

"Changing her wet sandals at Lookout House."

"Wet sandals! Where has she been?"

"She'll be here in a minute and tell you herself, Lucette. Better go back to the party," Mark Trent suggested. "The New York producer and the Boston manager are still here, aren't they? We're depending on you to see that they have the time of their lives."

"Boy, when Brooke didn't appear, I forgot those bozos, forgot that we'd had a play." With his hand on the knob of the door, Sam stopped. "Come along, Lucette."

Lucette caught Field's arm.

"Come with us, Jerry, and stop the rumor that you and Brooke have eloped; also we'll let people tell us what hits we were in 'Islands Arise.' "

"Suppose we go back to the party," Mark Trent suggested, and offered his arm to Mrs. Gregory.

As Mark Trent stepped back that Mrs. Gregory might precede him into the hall, Jed Stewart caught his arm.

"Sorry to Report That You've Lost Your Chauffeur, Mrs. Gregory."

"Just a minute, fella!" He lowered his voice. "The inspector wants us to wait up until he gets here, no matter if he doesn't come till daylight."

Mark nodded assent. The throb of a harp, the singing of the violins, the quaver of the horns, the brooding of the obie were muted to a caressing minor, heart-breakingly sweet, as he piloted Mrs. Gregory to a throne-like chair in the hall. He left her and went in search of the New York producer. It required considerable finesse to evade clamorous friends. Even as he acknowledged praise of his acting, congratulations on the party, he was thinking what a queer, aching, vivid thing love was, with its ecstasy, its inevitable misunderstandings, its quarrels, and he wondered why he bruised his heart against Brooke's dislike, wondered if she would ever forgive him for that kiss. At least he—

"Mark! Mark!"

Before he had a chance to evade her, Daphne Field flung a bare arm about his neck.

"Dance with me, please! Mark! Mark! You must love me!" The girl's voice caught in a sob as she pressed against him.

Too annoyed to answer, he put his arm about her to guide her out of the room. As he turned he saw Brooke Reyburn standing directly behind her. There was a curious light in her eyes, a mocking smile on her lips.

Even as Brooke smiled and accepted congratulations on the success of her brother's play, did her best to entertain the New York producer who attached himself to her from the moment Sam presented him, she was asking herself impatiently:

"Will the party never end? Who stole that paper from my desk? Can I make Mark Trent understand why I held it back? If it is lost, will he ever forgive me?"

But all parties end. The last of the guests, with Mrs. Gregory carefully tucked into their limousine, drove off in a flood of moonlight which transformed the world into an enchanted land of dazzling purity. The producer and manager left in a powerful car after hearty handshakes with Sam and a backward look at Brooke as she stood between her brother and Mark Trent in the hall. Except for the Reyburns, the Fields were the last to go.

She drew an unsteady breath of relief when the front door had shut out the brother and sister. They were outlanders in the present situation. She couldn't have told her story before them, and she must tell it quickly; that will must be found. She wanted Lucette and Sam to hear what she had to tell Mark Trent and Jed Stewart: the sooner they knew of the change in her fortune, the better.

Mark Trent linked his arm in Sam's.

"Don't wig-wag the let's-go signal at the girls, maestro. Jed and I can't let you off yet. Come into the library. Half the fun of a party is talking it over. I told Kowa to bring in some eats. I don't believe you Reyburns ate a mouthful of supper; you were too busy receiving congratulations. I'm starving myself."

Sam grinned.

"Now that you call the matter to my attention, I could toy with a little food. Come on, Brooke."

Lucette was curled up against the pillows in a corner of the library couch hugging her knees, when they entered. Stewart was backed up to the mantel. The girl's eyes were brilliant, her cheeks were pink, the voice in which she greeted them was bumpy from excitement:

"Come in, folks, and hear Jed tell me how good I was. He predicts that I would be an overnight sensation on Broadway."

"Snap out of that idea and snap out of it quick."

"Don't growl, Master Reyburn; he has been handing bouquets to the play too. I done you wrong, Sammy, when I crabbed about the last minute changes you made in the script; they were the high lights. Where's Jerry?"

Mark Trent answered Lucette's question.

"He and Daphne have gone home. You put it all over the other women in the cast of 'Islands Arise,' Lucette."

"She was a knockout and so was the leading woman," Sam agreed, "but, if you want to know who had the New York producer eating out of her hand, it was our little sister Brooke. After she arrived—trust a Reyburn to realize the dramatic value of a late entrance—I couldn't pry him away from her; lucky I got my option before she appeared. What were you saying to him, Brooke?"

"We talked theater fast and furiously. It was a wonder that I could think of anything but the near escape the party had from a holdup."

Kowa entered with his quick catlike tread. His eyes sparkled like black diamonds as he set a Chinese teapoy of red and gold lacquer beside each chair.

"Boy, I'm tired! I feel all in," Sam confessed.

"It's reaction, and I'll bet you haven't eaten for hours and hours." Mark Trent spoke to Kowa as he returned with a laden tray.

"Serve Mr. Sam first. Here you are, maestro."

Sam's grin was swift and a trifle sheepish.

"I'm all right, m'lad; slumped for a minute, that's all."

"Don't apologize," Lucette mimicked.

"I'm not apologizing. I'm explain—" Sam broke off with a grimace at his sister. "Humorous, aren't you, kiddo? Fuss over Brooke, Mark, she needs it more than I. What with bracing me every time I got cold feet about 'Islands Arise' and getting dragged into the crime wave, she's had a hectic time since she came to Lookout House to live—I'll take another shot at those rolls, Kowa—I don't wonder she has decided to trek back to the town apartment. What will we do with the parrot when we go, Brooke?"

Brooke felt her color rise in response to the flash in Mark Trent's eyes as they met hers reflected in the great mirror. This was as good an opening as any she could bring about to tell the story of the paper Henri had produced. She rose and stood behind her chair.

"We won't have to consider the parrot, Sam. Mr. Micawber has gone."

"Gone!" Sam and Lucette chorused.

"Did he make another get-away, or has Henri kidnaped him?"

"Neither, Sam. He's in his cage, just a heap of green feathers."

"Poor old duffer. He hasn't had any pep since the night he took off in a hop for freedom. I liked that bird. Something's always taking the joy out of life."

"Cheerio, Master Reyburn, you still have your option," Lucette reminded. "Why can't we move to town tomorrow? No more commuting! What a break! I suppose you'll close Lookout House, Brooke?"

Brooke tried to force a gay note into her voice:

"I'll close Lookout House, Lucette, because I have accepted an offer—"

The sentence trailed off as Inspector Bill Harrison strode into the room.

"Well, Mark, I got it!"

"Got 'it'! You're too modest, Inspector, you got the whole gang, I understand."

"Cripes, I'm not talking about those dirty thugs, Mark. That isn't what I came for. I got the will you was telling me about."

CALIFORNIA
News of the Week

Pint of Spirits Your Share

Sacramento.—There is nothing dry about the statistics compiled today from the liquor records of the State board of equalization. If you are an average Californian, they disclosed that you buy, and presumably drink, a pint of whisky a month. If not whisky, whatever other spiritous beverage you favor. And the average Californian, the compilations also show, absorbs 1 4-10 gallons of beer and 1-5 of a gallon of wine every month.

L. A. Group Plan Boycott

Los Angeles.—Plans for a "people's boycott" of Japanese products as a protest against Japanese war activity in China were disclosed by an organization incorporated in California as the World Peace by Boycott, Inc. A statement said the only "effective way" of ending the undeclared war in the Orient, outside of a punitive war, "is by a boycott of Japanese goods imposed by the people of the peace-loving nations themselves." The organization has opened permanent offices in Los Angeles.

Crimes Increase in State

Sacramento.—Crime increased in California in the first eight months of 1937, it was reported by the State Division of Criminal Identification and Investigation. Total crimes during the first eight months were 24,749 as compared to 21,703 in 1936; September, 3107 against 2557 in the same month of last year and a year's total to date of 27,856 to 24,260. Assaults to murder decreased from sixty to forty-one, however. Purse snatching showed an increase of from 292 to 460.

Burned Timber Salvaged

Auburn.—De Witt Nelson, the supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest, reported that over 8,000,000 feet of timber has been salvaged from the Westville area in Placer County, which was swept by a forest fire during the fall of 1936. Additional salvage from the area may be obtained by the use of approximately 8,000,000 feet of scorched cedar growth for the manufacture of pencil stock. Nelson estimated that 10,000,000 feet of salvage timber would be removed by a Sacramento industrial concern before winter makes the road impassable for trucks.

New Oil Field Opened

Bakersfield.—Strong probability of production being obtained from two wildcat wells now being prepared for production in the Greeley area of Kern County led operators to forecast that the Greeley district may develop the greatest length of any oil field in the United States with the possible exception of the East Texas area. The present prospect is that the Greeley field, discovered a year ago by the Standard Oil Company, as a result of extensions to the northwest and southeast may develop high gravity crude production over an area extending for from twelve to fifteen miles.

Hearing on Rail Abandonment

Marysville.—R. R. Molster, examiner for the interstate commerce commission, presided in the contested hearing on the proposed abandonment of twelve miles of the Indian Valley Railroad, between Crescent Mills and Paxton, Plumas County. Molster, after listening to the testimony of witnesses for the State department of public works, the United States Forest Service, the United States Bureau of Public Roads and the railroad, said he will take the matter under advisement and submit a report to Washington, D. C. The railroad, built in 1912, connects with the Western Pacific main line at Paxton and with the Western Pacific's Bieber branch at Crescent Mills.

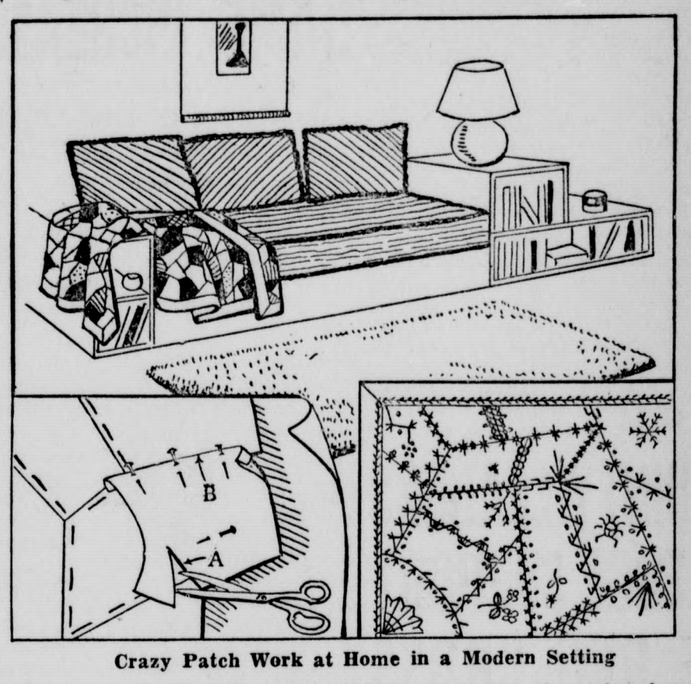
Gas Death Chamber Ready Soon

Sacramento.—California's gas lethal chamber will be completed about December 28 at San Quentin, the State department of architecture announced. It will cost about $15,000 and will be of steel and glass, circular in shape and with a conical roof. The floor diameter will be eight feet; height seven feet and it will contain two chairs to allow for double executions. The lethal room will be used to put to death those who receive capital punishment sentences for crimes committed after August 27, last. Suction pumps will remove gas from the chamber through a twelve-inch vent, diffusing the deadly hydrocyanic gas into the open air, at a point twenty feet above San Quentin's highest buildings.

State Humane Officers Elected

Palo Alto.—The annual conference of the State Humane Association of California, held here, elected B. S. Brisac president. Mrs. Nellie P. Holbrook was elected first vice-president, with Mrs. F. Thomas and Mrs. Frances Weldon second and third vice-presidents. Treasurer is John McGow, secretary, Charles W. Friedrichs, and assistant secretary, Miss Kate Wakeling. The group passed a resolution supporting the humane pound act to appear on the State ballot next year.

HOW TO SEW
by Ruth Wyeth Spears



Crazy Patch Work at Home in a Modern Setting

THE crazy patch is the oldest of quilt patterns, yet there is something amazingly modern in its angular lines. So whether your living room is traditional in style or newer than tomorrow you will be interested in the revival of crazy patch work for what our grandmothers and great-grandmothers called a "slumber throw."

A corner of one of these old silk crazy quilts is shown here at the lower right. The pieces were small—many not more than 1½ inches wide or long. A variety of embroidery stitches joins the pieces. Both plain and figured silks were used, the plain patches often being embroidered with flowers, fans and other amusing motifs—note the beetle embroidered on one patch. Several colors of silk embroidery thread were generally used but in the most artistic of these quilts one color predominated in the embroidery.

Larger patches with simple feather stitch and herring-bone stitch at the joinings also give a good effect. The pieces are sewed to a foundation of some firm soft material. Outing flannel or an old wool blanket are good. Pin a piece in place over the space to be filled, trim the edges to the right shape, as at A, allowing enough to turn under, as at B, where the patch laps over the one next to it. Baste the turned edges down, as shown. When a number of patches have been basted in place, sew them down to the foundation with the embroidery stitches and then remove the bastings. The backing is tied to the front with silk embroidery thread as comforters are tied. Little or no padding may be used and a plain band around the edge is effective.

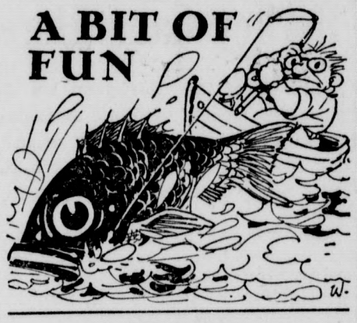
Right Is Might

Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.—Abraham Lincoln.

A BIT OF FUN



First Step

"Today's my wife's birthday," said the manager to his assistant. "I want her to be very happy when I go home this evening. Can you suggest anything?"

"Yes, sir; I'd suggest you remove that lipstick from your ear."

His Idea

Mrs. Smythe took her husband to a mannequin parade. An evening gown worn by an extremely pretty model attracted her attention.

"That would look nice at our party next Saturday," she said, hoping her husband would buy it for her.

"Yes," agreed Mr. Smythe. "Why not invite her?"

OH, THAT'S IT

Boogy—Do you know statisticians claim the automobile has actually cut down the deaths from old age in this country?

Woogy—How's that? Prevents over-exertion, I suppose?

Boogy—No, not that so much, but fewer people escape to reach old age.

He Certainly Did

A patient was ordered by his doctor to confine himself to a fish diet. Entering a restaurant, he asked: "Have you any shark, whale or goldfish?"

"No," said the waiter, "we have not."

"Then," said the man, "bring me a large steak and onions. Heaven knows, I asked for fish."

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it.

When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

BRISBANE GENERALITIES

By Mary Lou Burns

Red Wilson is home from the hospital and getting around again, slowly but surely. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Well, at least Otto Petersen can still cook his meals as his stove with the coffee pot on it was the only thing left when fire burned his house to the ground last Sunday night.

Bill Roak went to Fresno last week end for the motorcycle races.

Bob Burns and Paul Lucy took a trip to the mountains last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed O'Hara have moved from the hillside down to 217 Alvarado street.

Phil Sbriglio, prominent grocer, directed a P. T. A. meeting, Wednesday evening of this week.

adjoining territory will respond to the appeal for funds and help us surpass last year's figure of $5331, which was realized in the combined county."

The local Red Cross chairmen were organizing their respective groups of workers who are showing enthusiasm as they await the starting date of the roll call.

Figures available at the San Mateo County chapter of Red Cross reveal that thousands of persons were given shelter, food and clothing in the recent disastrous flood in the East.

Parent Teachers Present Program

The Jefferson Union High School and Colma Parent Teacher Associations are presenting an excellent program of school talent tomorrow evening in the High School Auditorium. "The Reformers," a one act play directed by Marjorie Fuchs under the supervision of William Hoppe, director of dramatics, with Robert Funge, Leo Grenier, Russell Antrocoli, Melba Nelson and Miriam Marin in the cast, will be an outstanding number.

The new stage craft class is doing the staging under the direction of Durant Moseley.

Other features on the program are: Boys' Chorus, Boys of the Jefferson Glee Club; Accordion Solo, Elio Fontana; Singing Number, Nursery Rhymes—Thorton School; Accordion Solo, Norma Pedemonte; Dancing Number, Part I, Miss Rose's Class; Clarinet Solo, Ralph Shinazy; Dancing Number, Part 2, Miss Rose's Class; Girls Chorus, Jefferson Girls' Glee Club.

Music by J. U. H. S. Orchestra.

Urged to Attend Hallowe'en Dance

Dance comitteemen report that many people will tether their broomsticks outside the Veteran's Social Hall tonight because of the big Hallowe'en Ball in those quarters.

The Brisbane Veterans urge everyone to attend and step out to the music of a first class orchestra.

Award For Play

Several students of the advanved English classes and of the dramatic class of Jefferson Union High School attended the presentation of a cash award for the best play written by any Peninsula high school students this year.

The award was presented by Miss Beauel Gibbins of Jefferson, who represented the Peninsula Center Dramatic Teachers Association, to Alan Bruce, a student at Palo Alto, for his one-act play, "A Cursed Necklace."

ORGANIZATION IS RESPONSIBLE FOR GAME INCREASE

Conservation Of Wild Life Is Main Mission Of California Association

A good many sportsmen who do not belong to any club or who do not belong to the Associated Sportsmen of California, Inc. are not aware of the fact that the above association and its member clubs are greatly responsible for the increase of game birds such as quail, pheasants, chukor, partridge, and several other species. As for game fish especially the striped bass, the Associated Sportsmen of California, Inc. and its member clubs have not been given credit enough for having stopped the netting of striped bass, a practice that was rapidly cleaning out this fine game fighting fish.

The fall of 1934 the big dance held at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco by the association was the first big affair where funds were received to carry on conservation work and from the hard work of members of the association. The Striped Bass bill was put over enabling some 75,000 people in central California to enjoy a wonderful sport.

October of last year another big dance was held in the Dreamland Auditorium and again the affair was a great success enabling the delegates to properly represent the association at Sacramento.

Now for the third Annual Big Game Dance to be held on November 20, at Scottish Rite Auditorium, Sutter and Van Ness. Every member and his family and friends should attend the greatest dance of all times. Big caravans of sportsmen and friends from all over Central California should head for San Francisco on big game night to attend the big game dance of the Associated Sportsmen. All proceeds go to the conservation fund.

Dick Austin of Martinez, the hustling chairman of the dance committee, ably assisted by Edward Moore, E. Parish, H. Douglas, C. Craig, C. Burkhardt, "Pop" Glenn, C. Lovelace, M. Smith, Mrs. E. Parrish, Mrs. E. Eklund, Mrs. Dwyer, and others, are all on the job to make this a great affair. The dance committee would like a good crowd attend the Big Game Dance.

School Girls Win Hockey Game Here

Members of the Jefferson Union High School Girls' Athletic Association were hostesses, Tuesday of last week, to hockey teams from both South San Francisco and Burlingame.

The Jefferson girls showed much improvement from last year by defeating South San Francisco by a score of 0 to 0 and 1 to 0 and therefore reversing last year's score of 0 to 0 and 1 to 0 in favor of South San Francisco. The winning goal was scored by Lorraine Heim in the second half.

The other games played were between Burlingame and Jefferson, and Burlingame and South San Francisco.

The scores were: Burlingame vs. Jefferson, 0-0; Burlingame vs. Jefferson, 0-0; South San Francisco vs. Burlingame, 2-0; South San Francisco vs. Burlingame, 1-0.

High School Boys Are Game Ushers

A group of boys of Jefferson Union High School acted as ushers at the University of California-Southern California football game last Saturday afternoon.

The boys who were given this privilege were Mike Kerekes, Glen Smith, Arnold Penella, Bob Savelly, Buzzy Wright, Kevin Epidendio, George Lewis, Dick Millet, Lawrence Lemos, Bud Simpson and Paul Tolovi. They were accompanied by Mr. Gray and Mr. Hackley, faculty members.

DRAMATIZE SOME EXCERPTS FROM FAMOUS TALES

Pupils Of Elementary Grades Assisted In Education By Means Of Radio

Education through radio, phonograph, motion pictures, lantern slides and well mounted pictures are the means which are stimulating and impressing the learning processes of the students in the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School. A definite, well planned program whereby every class in the building follows a series of programs especially fitted to its needs and integrated in one or more ways with the activities in the room is enjoyed. The opportunity group and fifth grade enjoy the weekly historical and geographical dramatization of interest in California history presented over Station KLX by the Alameda Schools.

The characters in literature of famous books of a decade or more ago have become a vital and alive spectacle to students in the seventh and eighth grade as they listen to the dramatization of excerpts from such famous stories as "House of Seven Gables," "Moby Dick," "Treasure Island," "The White Company" and others. Preceding this broadcast, also presented by the Alameda schools a student in the class reports on the book from which an excerpt is to be broadcast, thus arousing a keener interest in literary appreciation.

Other groups in the school enjoy radio travelogues of historical and geographical natures which integrate with the work being done i nthe social science classes. To further fit the seventh and eighth grade for the transition from elementary to high school, vocational guidance programs are intensively listened to with a follow up questionaire which awakens these students to the 'open doors" in vocational possibilities which await them.

Bi-monthly motion pictures on industries, natural resources, imports, exports, customs, and habits of foreign peoples and scenes are always awaited anxiously by the classes, as well as the lantern slides and well mounted pictures which are in daily use in one or more classes throughout the school.

Music appreciation given to children by means of the phonograph is understood and enjoyed as the children by previous instructions are given the background and story of such famous compositions as William Tell Overture, Sonata in B Flat Minor, Nocturne in E Flat, Hungarian Rhapsody, etc.

Lesson Sermon Of Christian Science

"Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, October 31, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Blessed is the man whom thou chastenest, O Lord, and teachest him out of thy law" (Ps. 94: 12). Other Bible citations will include: "Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the punishment of his sins? Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord. . . . It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness" (Lam. 3: 39, 40, 22, 23).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Love corrects and governs man. Men may pardon, but this divine Principle alone reforms the sinner" (p. 6).

SOUTH CITY WINS OVER JEFF HIGH IN BIG CONTEST

Local Team Encounters Plenty Of Wind And Much Hard Luck As They Lose

In the annual big game between Jefferson and South San Francisco, the South City Boilerbakers came out on the long end of a 18 to 0 score. Playing on the opposing team's field, the Indians hit plenty of wind and a lot of bad luck.

The first quarter saw most of the action in South City territory, but the second quarter was South City's breaks and they drove deep into Jefferson's territory, but lost the ball on downs. Jefferson then fumbled on their own 13-yard line. This proved the biggest break of the game. The Boilermakers recovered and then threw a 20 yard pass into the end zone for the first score. The conversion failed and the score was 6-0.

Immediately following the kickoff after the touchdown it was Jefferson's ball, with Balletto kicking from his own 38-yard line. The ball was blocked, a South City man picked it up and ran for another touchdown, thus putting Jefferson in a deep hole by two disastrous incidents.

South City's kicker held the spotlight for the second half with terrific boots that kept the Indians in their own territory; yet the line held until the last four minutes of the game, but then a South City end run netted about eight yards and a touchdown. The conversion failed, and the score of 18 to 0 ended the game.

If there was a distinct edge in any department it was in kicking. With or without wind, South City's punter booted beautifully, not giving Jefferson much of a chance to get near the enemy goal line.

George Balletto, Jefferson's star fullback, received a broken collar bone during the contest, which also added to the Indians' despondency.

LOW GRADE FUEL

Use of low grade motor fuel containing a large proportion of heavy distillate will cause crankcase dilution to occur much more quickly than would be the case with a good grade of fuel.

BRISBANE HOUSE IS CONSUMED BY MYSTERIOUS FIRE

with a high pressure fog nozzle, collapsed from the heat and utter exhaustion and was carried to safety by Al Pierson, Lloyd Ruke, Al Walland and Barney Blanchard. He was revived by Marshal Terry and Lieutenant Trafford.

Due to the contour of the ground, firemen battling the blaze from the rear were cautioned by officers against plunging into the flames. Five firemen narrowly averted death when a buckling hose sent them within a foot of plunging down a bank through the roof.

The list of injured are: John Carroll, cut on right forearm; Assistant Marshal C. Knaus, second degree burn on right hand; John Gonzales, cut on right hand; Barney Blanchard, contusion, right hip; Roy Edwards, suffocation, first and second degree burns of face and hands.

Chief Fred Schmidt estimated the loss at $2500.

Daly City Dancers Entertain Sunday

Sunday evening of this week, a group of students from the Miss Rose Dance Studio presented a program of dancing and singing for the benefit of the Guadalupe Church in San Francisco.

Those whose dancing was greatly enjoyed were Betty Conroy, June Blecher, Anna Marie Domecus, Mary Lou Montana, Alba Canale, Ernestine and Sarita Ferreira, Chickie and Carl Fortina, Mary Chiechi, Violet and Ruth Sanderson, Helen Hankerson, Dorothy Langensand, Jimmy Rasor, Phoebe Remington and Esther Hannel.

The entertainers were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Russo and Mrs. Rasor.

These same children are taking part in a program to be presented in the Jefferson Union High School tonight, (Friday).
